

Scans 493-507 — individually-worth-posting candidates (HOLD)

33 cards · alphabetical by last name · raw/ungraded eBay-comp estimate · NOT posted — pull each and confirm

Batch total: $199 – $440 (typical ~$291)

Two Shohei Ohtani cards in this batch, priced very differently. Ohtani (1), Scan 493, is confirmed in-hand as a plain base card (not the special parallel it looked like from the scan), so it's priced modestly. Ohtani (2), Scan 499 (Topps 75 insert), is still the wild card — he's the single biggest name in the batch, but the automated pricing data was genuinely unreliable for it (the same product code returned prices from $12 to $172 depending on query phrasing). Get a real eBay sold-comp on that one before setting a price.

How to read this: prices are RAW/ungraded July 2026 eBay-comp estimates (asks, sold runs a bit under). Rows marked * had a plausible automated PriceCharting hit; everything else is a reasoned estimate off player standing and card scarcity — verify before finalizing an ask, especially Ohtani (2). Several players have more than one physical copy flagged (Cal Raleigh x3, Marcelo Mayer x3, Jackson Merrill/Jose Ramirez/Paul Skenes/Junior Caminero x2 each, Ohtani x2) — the suggestion column flags these; confirm each is a genuine second physical card before posting both, otherwise fold the extra into a team lot instead.
